THE GREAT ECLIPSE

path.

The eclipse will occur September 18th, 1838, be tween 3 and 6 o'clock, in the afternoon. The first point of contact will be about 97 degress from the sun's vertex, (or top) to the right hand, precisely at 3h. 17min. 58 seconds. The beginning of the annular eclipse will be 4h. 35m. 27sec. The luminous ring will coatinue 6m. 29 sec. and end at 4h. 41m. 47 sec. The nearest 6m. 20 sec. and end at 4h. 41m. 47 sec. The mearest approach of the centres of the sun and moon will take place at precisely 4h. 38m. 36 sec. and the apparent distance of the centres will then be only 23 1 2 seconds—the moon's apparent latitude being 18 sec. south—of course the ring will be nearly cencentric, the upper part being a small fraction broader than the under part, on account of the exact central path falling a little to the west of Bridgeton. This will be by far the most interesting portion of the phenomenon. The sun will in a great measure be klotted out from the heavens—and his place*supplied by a luminous ring of surpassing beauty and splendor! To witness it would rec the voyage across the great Atlantic. The shadow will then gradually leave the sun, and the eclipse will end at 5h. 50m. 53 sec. just fifteen minutes before the sun sets to the inhabitants at Bridgeton, having continued

The above calculations are all made to solar or apparent time, being that which is usually kept in this place—the equitation of time is about 6m. fast; deduting these from the times above, you will have mean or clerk time.

This eclipse—the fifth and last of the singular series This eclipse—the fifth and last of the singular series of five large obscurations of the sun visible to us in seven years—will be annular in the Territory of Wisconsin, in the District of Columbia, and throughout or in some part of thirteen States, viz. throughout Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland; throughout Ohio and Virginia, with the exception of the southwest part of each; in the western and southern parts of New York; in the northeastern part of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, and North Carolina; and in the county of Fairfield, in the southwest part of

The path of the central eclipse first touches the earth at a point situated in the unknown regions near the North Pole, and a little east of the meridian of Greenwich; in a few seconds it attains its greatest north lati-tude, (88 degrees,) whilst for the first eight minutes it rapidly advances towards the west, until it is 99 deg. west of that meridian. The path of the centre then rapidly advances towards the west, until it is 39 deg. west of that meridian. The path of the centre then passes in a south by east direction over the whole extent of the continent lying North of the United States; it passes a little to the west of Hudson's Bay, over the territory of the Hudson's Bay Company, the western part of Upper Canada and Lake Superior; thence over the northeast part of the Territory of Wisconsin and of the State of Michigan, over the London District of Upper Canada, and Lake Erie; thence across the northeast part of the counties of Cayahoga and Columbians, and the counties of Geauga and Trumbull, in the northeastern part of Ohio; thence across the southwest part of the counties of Mercer, Buller, and Bedford, and the counties of Beaver, Alleghany, Westmoreland, and Somerset, in the southwest part of Pennsylvania; thence across the eastern part of the county of Alleghany, in the western part of Maryland; thence across the counties of Pince George, Charles, and St. Mary, in the southwest part of Maryland; thence across the Chesapeake Bay and the county of Accomac, on the Bastern Shore of Virginia, to the At-

The eclipse, we perceive begins to be the subject of comment in some of the newspapers in our country, and this early sotice is no doubt owing to some peculiar circumstances connected with the phenomenon itself. For many years past we have had, at short intervals, a large celipse of the sum—either total or samular; and this one has been styled, by way of eminence, the last of the series—for we shall not witness another similar eclipse for next possible that many of us a shell ever be permitted to see! Yes, before another conjunction of the save's rays, which will cause a rotal obscuration of the save's rays, a whole generation of our species will have passed the ordeal of death, and the retributions of etermity! According to the tables of Bessel and Burkhardt, the principal cities to which the eclipse of the 18th of September will be annular, are Baltimere, Buffalo, Detroit, Harrisburg, Norfolk, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Richmond, Rochester, Toronto, (Upper Canada,) Trenton, Petersburg, Wheeling, Washington, New York, &c.c.; but the last is situated so near the line of the northern boundary of the ring that it will not be so, should the latitude of the moon, as given by the tables, be too great by only eight seconds. Under any circumstances, the ring at New York will be of very unequal width, and will be many times broader on the northern than on the southern side. At the nearest approach of the centres of the sun and moon, the distance of the centres will be: at Buffalo, 48 the distance of the centres will be: at Buffalo, 48 seconds; at Philadelphia, 41; at Richmond. 25; at Baltimere, 16; at Detroit, 10; whilst at Pittsburg and the ring be of equal width entirely around the

The eclipse, according to the above tables, will take place as follows: the elipticity of the earth being considered 1-300th, and the semi-diameters of the sun and moon reduced, according to the theory of De Sejour, in the mean solar, (clock time of the respective cities.) Much diminution of the light, during the couting ance of the eclipse, is not to be expected; but a very sonsiderable depression of the thermometer will be noticed, and for half as hour, the power of a lens to noticed, and for half as hour, the power of a lens to produce combustion, by refracting the solar rays, will be nearly, if not wholly destroyed. It is, however, not impossible that the planet Venus, notwithstanding her great distance from the earth, may be seen by the naked eye during the greatest obscuration, as she will then be 21 deg. WNW of the sun. Perhaps, also, some ene of the fellowing bright stars may be discovered: Arcturus, high in the southwest; Lyra, in the east; Altair, rather low in the southeast; Spica, in the southwest; Antares, in the south. The ca, in the southwest; Antares, in the south. The planets Mercury, Jupiter, and Saturn, will be above the horizon, but too near the sun to be seen.

CARD—WILLIAM GIBSON, PLAIN AND DECORA
TIVE HOUSE PAINTER GLAZIER, AND GLASS
STAINER.—In tendering his grateful acks wiedgment, to the citizens of New York, for the liberal patronage he has received since he commenced business, and the decided approbation besto wed upon the new styles of work introduced by him, takes the liberty of informing his patronas and the public, that he has now after an unceasing exertion of four years, so increased his facilities, and effected such arrangements as will emable hirz to produce all that is new and elegant connected with his profession, in a style as regards execution and design hitherto mantemptod in this country. In the interior decoration of public and private buildings, it will ever be his study to unite elegance with utility, combined with a strict regard to the laws of barmonious cloring. It is almost superfluous to state, that a general negligence of those rues, is the cause of all our error in decoration—how rarely so we see in the simple painting of our apartments any combination of colors, that is not in some part offensive against even the common rules of art, the unpleasant effects arisin tions, and by a due attention to the use, situation and choice or furulture, produce an arrangment harmonious and agreeable to the eye.

In soliciting an increase of patronage, W. G. would state that none but experienced workmen are employed on the plain department, while the decorative will come from the pencil of the first artists that can be procured in the various departments, under the immediate superintendence and designs of himself, an extensive variety of which are now ready for public inspection. Consisting of imilations of all knewn woods and marbles, imitations of Silk and sowed tapestry; damask, Morocco, &c. for walls, trabesk, rica, French, and old English ornamental panel work adapted every species of decoration. This Prench marine and oriental designs, are particularly submitted to the attention of ship owners, &c. as an appropriate style of decoration for the cabins of packets and steamers, belleving that no style of work is better calculated by the chaste, pleasing and never ending variety of its ornament to release the mind on long voyages at sea, or increase the pleasure of lake and river travelling—stained, enamelled and pointed glass is every known method.

W. G. having devoted much of his time for the last ten years in experimenting and perfecting this beautiful, but till lately much neglected art, believes he has now the most extensive and beautiful variety of colors ever burnt upon glass, which, with other improvements, will enable him to complete work equal, in brilliancy and durability, to any specimens of twelfth and succeeding centuries; and that a taste for this beautiful art may become more generally diffused, designs will be farnished original and selected from the best models of ancient and modern art; and chosen with particular reference to its situation and use.

Should W. G. continue to receive that encouragement, it will ever be his study to merit, he pledges himself that neither exertion nor experience will be wanting in his endeaver to elevate his now meglected profession t

N. B. The store to let. Inquire as above.

PARLORI DUMB S'S OVE—The subscribers having made arrangements with Mr. John G. Trradwell, are now prepared to offer for sale his Improved Patent Compound Farlor Dumb Stove. The combination of this stove (constructed so as to make two entirely separate stoves—a parlor stove, and dumb stove, in one form) is an advantage which has not been attained in any other stove ever made. In style it is beautiful, and perfectly unique. Its operation, as a dumb stove, or in the combination, is perfect—warranted in either case not to smoke. The materials are good; the workmanship cannot be surpassed; and it is so made that it may be cleared at any time with the greatest ease without removal. The saving of fuel alone should be sufficient inducement for every family to be in possions of one of those stoves. The heat from a stove or range in the basement room, which is usually lost by carrying the pipe directly into the chimney, is sufficient, in most cases, to warm the room above; when it is not sufficient, an additional arcaum the room above; when it is not sufficient, an additional arcaum the stove below. It is likewise a beautiful arricle for halls. Sy placing the Hall Stove in the basement made in this stove, and at the same time save as the heat from the stove below. It is likewise a beautiful arricle for halls. Sy placing the Hall Stove in the basement, and this stove in the main hall, you thereby gain a greater and more uniform heat, from the same fuel, for the pariors before it escapes above by the use of this stove. Halls and pariors are always free from the dust arising from making fire in the ordinary coal stove, which has to be cleaned once or twice each day, and the dust settleing destroys a great quantity of valuable furniture.

Maving suffered much and for many years from habitual Dyspepais. I have found Br. Beckwith's Anti Dyspeptic Pills, whether used as an aperient or cathartic, decidedly better thin any other I have tried. They are perfectly safe, and taken according to the directions, strengthen rather than debilition the system. Those who are afflicted with impaired digestion, habitual constipation, and distress occasioned by food, will find them happily adapted to their case, and may take them with great advantage. I was so much pleused with them that I gave away two or three occas, to induce other dyspeptics and invalids to try them; and in this way the Rev. Mr. Marsh and others became acquisited with them. I have seen quite a number in this town, and in Tolland, who have used them and have heard but one opinion expressed; all speak of them in very high terms. I have also known several children accedity relieved of distress and indiaposition by the use of them. As a medicine for family use, they are better adapted than any other of which I have any knowledge.

This may certify, that having used several bears of Seckwith's Anti-Drapeptic Filis, I am satisfied they are worthy of a favorable and widely extended reception by those for whose relief and benefit they are designed. I have found great advantage from their use inamediately after meals, in causing my food to digest, and in alleviating severe biffuons attacks, to which of late years I have been often subject. I willows attacks, to which of late years I have been often subject. I willowly add, it is with great satisfaction that I have become acquainted with their virtues, and that they may be relied upon as a medicine safe to be tried by those seeking relief from suffering and disease.
